Lake Colors.
Some lakes are distinctly blue, others present various shades of green, so that in some cases they are distinguishable from their level, grass covered banks, and a few are almost black. The Lake of Geneva is azure blue. The Lake of Constance and the Lake of Lucerne are green, and the color of the Mediterranean has been called indigo. The Lake of Geneva is greenish yellow, and its neighbor, Lake Thun, is blue.—London Spectator.

Alternative of Education.
"Education," said the impassioned orator, "begins at home."
"That's where you're off," said the calm spectator. "It begins in the kindergarten, is continued in the boarding school, is taught in the hall, in the London and Wall street and ends in either Sing Sing or Newgate."—Life

At the Horse Show.
McBrier did not even see a horse jump five feet over a fence.
McSwatt did not even jump four feet over a fence. I don't know that a horse had four feet! Indianapolis News.

A message travels over an ocean cable at about 100 miles a second.

Appreciates Himself.
Minnie. Evidently Salie thinks her self one of the four hundred.
Kittie. One of them? She thinks she's the four and all the rest are the two ciphers. Boston Transcript.

Chimney sweeps seem to occupy the highest position in regard to mortality from coal and coal miners the lowest.

The sunokoto, a board, bridges and strips, is the representative instrument of Japan.

A Snake Story From India.
A queer story of the cure of a snake bite comes from India. A young man bitten by a venomous snake was evidently dying. The man called in remedied to try the most powerful remedy he knew. He tied a cowrie shell on to a piece of string and muttered incantations till it began to whirl round and round and finally disappeared. In a few minutes the snake that had done the damage appeared with the string and shell round its neck and was commanded by the man to put its mouth to the wound for about ten minutes, after which it was away. The dying man speedily recovered.

The British Seas.
The seas around the coast of the British Isles are mostly narrow. The narrowest width of the English channel is between Portland Bill and St. Mary, 100 miles. It narrows to 20 miles at one point in the strait of Dover. The distance between Great Britain and Ireland is even less. Tor Head is only twelve miles from the nearest point of the Mull of Cantire. Between Carnarvon Point and St. David's Head, in Wales, forty-seven miles is the least breadth of water.

Well Guarded.
"That's a handsome office clock of yours. Aren't you afraid it'll be stolen?"
"Never. Why, every clerk in my employ has one eye on it all day."—New York World.

Limited Experience.
The Widow—I suppose you are familiar with warfare in all its various forms, major?
The Major—Not all, madam; not all. I am still in the bachelor ranks.—Exchange

Care of Puppies.
Puppies after weaning will keep strong and healthy and will grow fast if fed only on fresh buttermilk and corn bread, with soup instead of the buttermilk twice a week, till they are five or six months old. Do not feed them sweet milk. Keep the puppies where they can get plenty of exercise. Do not crowd them. Arrange their kennels so that they can go in and out of their sleeping quarters. If fed in the same vessels, some dogs get more than their share of food and lose their manners also. Fasten a number of chains where they eat at such distances that no one can reach the other; then feed in individual pans. Give little medicine and plenty of exercise, and you will then have strong, healthy dogs. An hour's run every day in the year in the fields and woods, weather permitting, is essential to good health.

Get a True Focus.
A habit of looking at things from a distorted angle, of focusing the vision on things that depress and suggest unhappiness and misery, is a destroyer of happiness and success. A man who goes about with a funeral face, thinking "hard times," fearing "dull seasons," disaster, panic and failure wherever his interests center, is never a happy man, rarely a successful one. Pessimism is a destructive force in men's lives, just as optimism is a constructive agency.—Success.

Immune.
"My!" exclaimed the old lady who was taking her first trolley ride. "I should think it would be mighty dangerous workin' on these cars all the time. Ain't you 'fraid of the 'lectricity strikin' you?"
"No'm," he replied as he took her nickel and neglected to ring it up on the register. "You see, I'm not a good conductor."—Philadelphia Press.

Every man ought to aim at eminence not by pulling others down, but by raising himself, and enjoy the pleasure of his own superiority, whether imaginary or real, without interrupting others in the same felicity.

THREE QUEER DISEASES.

Two of Them Abide in the Congo Region and One in Peru.

There are two remarkable diseases, either or both of which may attack you if you elect to reside within the Congo basin, but you need have no dread of them if you live in any other part of the world. One is the sleeping sickness, a terrible, mysterious and variably fatal malady. The patient is at first only drowsy, but ends by sleeping almost continually, waking only for meals or when forcibly roused. Finally the torpor becomes complete. He cannot be roused even to take food, and dies of starvation.

The other disease alluded to is even more curious, although fortunately not nearly so deadly, and is known to specialists in tropical diseases as albinism, from a negro word meaning a saw, a very apt name, for the typical feature of the ailment consists in the slow amputation of one or more of the victim's toes by means of a serrated bony ligature which grows around the joint of the affected member just where it joins the foot. As soon as the ligature is completely formed it begins to contract, and off comes the toe as effectually, if not quite so quickly, as if it had been severed by the surgeon's knife.

In the province of Cerro de Pasco, in Peru, may be contracted a strange malady which consigns its victim to certain and lingering death. The ailment in question is termed verrugas (Spanish, a wart), and it occurs only in certain deep valleys in the highlands of that province. There, however, it is endemic and frightfully fatal, especially to the unacclimated white man. The whole surface of the body in bad cases becomes entirely covered with spongy, wartlike excrescences, varying from the size of a raspberry to that of a pigeon's egg, and from every one of these the patient's life blood oozes out continually until he perishes of inanition.—Chambers' Journal.

Good Manager.

"You seem to manage remarkably well on your housekeeping money."
"Yes. The tradespeople haven't sent their bills in yet."—New York Herald.

Well Posted.

That the next best thing to knowing the law is knowing where to find it was illustrated once when Judge Simon E. Baldwin of the Yale Law school in an examination on corporations asked his class a question which was extremely difficult. A certain complex state of facts was given, and the question ended with: "A client comes to you and states the above case. What would you advise him to do?"

The best answer handed in was: "I would advise him to come around at 10 o'clock the next morning. In the meantime I will look it up."

A Blow at Science.
"And the voltaic current," continued the lecturer, "was the discovery of Volta, and its development is a comparatively recent achievement of science."

TRANSPLANTED TREES.

Why They Frequently Remain Dormant a Whole Season.

Certain kinds of trees frequently remain dormant all summer, following spring transplanting. To all appearances they are dead, and they are as a rule to the owner left dormant.

As a writer of this has seen withal, as horse chestnuts, ash and tulip trees remain perfectly dormant all summer and come out safely into leaf the following spring. It seems contrary to nature that trees should live without the leaves, which we learn are their lungs and essential for evaporation and assimilation of food in the growing season.

Explanation of this peculiar action is had by studying for a moment the conditions that probably exist. The roots of such trees have been disturbed and their feeding powers suddenly checked. They are called upon to support the tops as formerly, yet their opportunity for the time being is gone. A struggle is going on. The tops make a feeble effort to put forth buds and draw on the roots for nourishment with poor success. The roots yield of their stored food, but are too weak or are not in a position to make new feeding fibers. If the tops have not been pruned, the drain is so much the greater. Where leaves put forth, transpiration would be more than the trees could stand, and they would gradually die away.—Mechan's Monthly.

A Hard Luck Tale With a Sting.

It was not a new hard luck tale to the man to whom it was told. The young man, neatly dressed and dapper looking, was not out of work, had not lost his purse, was not poverty stricken at all, but he had come down from Rye to go over to Newark and in changing his clothes had forgotten to transfer his pocketbook to the trousers he put on.

"I hate to ask the favor of a stranger," the young man said, "but really it would save me much embarrassment if you could let me have a couple of dollars until tomorrow."

"Indeed I can't do it," said the man, for he believed not a word of the tale, and he left the disconsolate youth at the postoffice and, meeting a friend, invited him to luncheon and told him of his "gentlemanly beggar."
When the waiter handed him a check, the two had agreed that the story was highly improbable, but a moment later the doubting man gave a start.
"By Jove!" he exclaimed. "I've left my pocketbook in my other trousers!"—New York Times.

The Advance in Paper Making.

When Ulman Strometer long ago established paper making in Germany, he had no foresight of the important position paper was destined to assume in the civilization of man. In Strometer's time paper was a rare material, little used and only to be found in the offices of the learned, of scribes and of officers. The supply of Germany and of all northern Europe was brought from Italy and Spain—most of it from the factories of Fabriano, in Italy, where paper mills existed in the twelfth century, while a lively paper industry flourished in Spain, with its principal seat at San Felipe, in Valencia, as early as 1150.

The paper making art was introduced into both of these lands by the Arabs, who learned it in Samarcand and spread it through Europe. It was introduced into Samarcand in 751 by Chinese prisoners from their country, where it had been carried on from extremely ancient times.

Milk as a Food.

Milk as a food is a perfect one for the very young infant only. In adult life it is often of service and may save life, but it does not afford all the materials required for nutrition. Moreover, it yields what is not required—a large percentage of lime. The latest researches show that this is not so great an account of the quantity of lime contained in the milk as because the salts are in a form peculiarly adapted for retention in the system.

Her Biggest Catch.

The Mutual Friend (to athletic woman)—Now, Mrs. Stebbins, what was the largest fish you ever caught?
Mrs. Stebbins—It weighed 140 pounds, but I don't remember its name.
Mr. Stebbins (feeling)—I do; it was John Stebbins—Colorado Springs Gazette.

FIGHT SICKNESS.

Fear Will Harm and Courage Help You When Disease Comes.

Illness is most like a cowardly cur which gives chase if you flee from it, but goes on about its business, that of seeking the fearful ones, if you pass on unnoticing, but fearsomely. The reasons for the ability of brave men to go unharmed through pest hospitals as did Napoleon and as physicians do every day, are not only psychological, but physiological.

The quality of mere courage seems to have a sort of pickling and hardening effect upon the tissues of the body, like the plunge in brine, stealing them against infection, while fear, by "unstringing" the nerves, weakens the whole resisting power of the body, inviting the very evil feared most.

The scientific health journals have been discussing this potent fact in hygienic laws to a great extent and urging its recognition by the masses.
"Fear weakens the heart's action," says Health in an article on this subject, "induces congestion, invites indigestion, produces poison through decomposing foods and is thus the mother of auto-poisoning, which either directly causes or greatly aids in the production of quite 90 per cent of all our diseases."

In recognizing this law, however, it is just as well to carry in a small pocket of one's memory the old adage, "Discretion is the better part of valor," and to avoid running needless dangers. But it is a well known fact that smallpox and like contagious will attack first those who are trembling for fear of it, often having unscathed the brave ones who are in the thickest of it nursing, tending and even burying the plague-stricken.
With an armor welded of equal quantities of precaution and courage one stands a good chance of immunity from the attacking hordes of disease microbes.—New York Herald.

The Least of the Lot.

Mother—And so your friend Clara is soon to be married?

Daughter (just returned from a long absence)—Yes. Doesn't it seem strange? I hadn't heard a word about it until I called to see her this morning. She showed me her trousseau. It's perfectly lovely, just from Paris, and she has the handsomest ring I ever saw, and she showed me the house she is to live in and the furniture she has selected and the horses and carriages she is to have. She showed me everything except the man she is going to marry. I suppose she forgot about him.—London Answers.

Growing Old

Ought not to mean growing weak and feeble. It does not mean weakness or feebleness for those who eat with good appetite and sound digestion. It is of the utmost importance that old people should retain the power to digest and assimilate food which is the sole source of physical strength. When age brings feebleness it is generally because of the failure to assimilate the nutrition contained in food.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and enables the perfect digestion and assimilation of food. It invigorates the liver and promotes general physical well being.

"It is with gratitude we acknowledge what Dr. Pierce's medicine has done for grandmother, in fact it has cured her," writes Miss Carrie Ranker, of Perryburg, Ohio. "She had doctored with several physicians but found no relief until Dr. Pierce advised her what to do. She has now only three bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and is entirely well. She suffered with pain in kidneys, bladder and liver for ten years, and her kidneys were swollen with dropsy so bad she could hardly walk. My grandmother's name is Mrs. Caroline Heunen, her age is 71 years. I will gladly answer all letters of inquiry."

Sick people are invited to consult Dr. R. V. Pierce by letter, free. All correspondence is held as strictly private and sacredly confidential.
Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate the bowels.

THE LABOR TROUBLE AT KESWICK.

The town of Keswick in Shasta county, heretofore one of the most prosperous and flourishing mining towns in the state, is practically at a standstill owing to a strike ordered by the miners' union. Hotels have closed doors, and many other business houses are following suit, determined to quit business until the trouble is over. It was no question of wages that caused the shutdown that threw 800 men out of employment. It is simply a determination on the part of the owners to submit to no dictation at the hands of their employees as to who they shall or shall not employ. They are contending for the right to run their business in their own way, while the strikers are contending for a recognition of their union in the affairs of the mine. The Shasta Courier, published near the scene of the trouble, gives the following account of the origin of the strike. It shows how easily a thriving community can be plunged into the depths of distress by following the counsels of a few unreasoning leaders:

For some time past it has been hinted that an extensive strike was liable to ensue at the Keswick smelter, owing to differences between the company and the Keswick lodge of the Smeltermen's Union, a branch of the Western Federation of Miners. For some time organizers have been busy in Shasta county. At De La Mar a lodge was organized and later one at Keswick. The Keswick lodge practically embraces the Iron Mountain mine employees. The strike, it appears, is not over wages, as the men made no kick over the pay. It is simply a matter of principle with the strikers. Lately a man was run over at the smelter, by the slag train, and the men in charge of the train were fired by the company on account of the accident. There are no particulars as to the degree of blame in the accident—but at any rate the discharged train men belonged to the union. This was the primary trouble. The union demanded that the train men be reinstated. Several unpleasant little matters came up, and Donnelly, head of the Keswick union, and several others, were given the "grand bounce" by the company. Whereat the union met and demanded that the discharged men all be taken back. The company stood pat by its determination to run things its own way, and when the union sent a demand to reinstate the men or stand a strike, Manager Wright told the boys to play ball.

The committee appointed by the strikers was refused an audience by the manager of the company, and it was decided to call a strike when the shift changed. The business men of Keswick tried to arbitrate and adjust matters, but the company would not make any concessions, refusing to recognize the union. Notice of general strike was then declared, and the men at Iron Mountain and Keswick went out almost unanimously. So did the fires in the furnaces. The company is having a time with the fire at the mine, and perhaps would not care if a shut-down would come now at the smelter.

It is said that the company can stand a six months' suspension easily. The smelter men are well organized and declare they can hold out till the infernal smelters, heated by brimstone and superheated by the devil, are froze up solid. About 800 men are affected. The strikers claim they will receive help from the federation. So if the company can stand it, and the smeltermen can stand it, then they are all right—but it's the plain, common, middle-of-the-road citizen and business man and taxpayer who gets h-l. The business community gets in the neck no matter who wins out.

The town trustees of Sonora, in their effort to devise ways and means to run the city government, imposed a license tax on almost every kind of business. Among others, the lawyers were required to pungle up $3 per quarter for the privilege of doing business. The legal fraternity failed to see either law or justice in this hold-up scheme, and carried the matter to the courts. The legality of the enactment was sustained by the superior court, but an appeal to the supreme court was taken, and that tribunal has just decided the tax to be illegal. The point made by appellant was that it was a tax upon labor, or upon the right to earn a living, which is perfectly true. But the same may be said of a license tax upon any other business. A storekeeper pays license for the right to carry on his business; so does the showman, the telephone company, and clean down the line of the licensed schedule. The whole license system ought to be abolished, so far as it relates to necessary and useful avocations.

What doth it profit a firm to beat a good man for treasurer and lose an attorney for a public administrator?

Men's $1.50 every day shoes are being sold at $1.00 a pair at The Red Front.

GOOD CITIZENSHIP.

We can do no better than reproduce the following article on "Good Citizenship," printed by the San Jose Herald. It says:

"Good citizenship commences at home. He who is a good husband and father makes a good citizen, for conscientious regard for the duties of husband and father implies honorable discharge of one's duties in the world of business and the wider field of politics.

"President Roosevelt has said many good things well, among them his views on good citizenship, in which the ideas of the first paragraph are carried out.

"Now," said President Roosevelt, in a recent speech, "when we come to the question of good citizenship, the first requisite is that the man shall do the homely, every day, humdrum duties well. A man is not a good citizen, I do not care how lofty his thoughts are about citizenship in the abstract, if in the concrete his actions do not bear them out; and if it does not make much difference how high his aspirations for mankind at large may be, if he does not behave well in his own family those aspirations do not bear visible fruit. He has got to be a good bread winner, he has got to take care of his wife and his children, he has got to be a neighbor whom the neighbors can trust.

"He has got to act squarely in his business relations, he has got to do those every day ordinary things first, or he is not a good citizen. But he has got to do more than that. In this country of ours the average citizen has got to devote a good deal of thought and time to the affairs of state as a whole or those affairs are going to go backward; and he has got to devote that thought and time steadily and intelligently."

"And of the dangerous man of society and particularly of the society of a republic, President Roosevelt speaks as pertinently and as well:

"There can," says the president, "exist in a free republic no man more wicked, no man more dangerous to the public, than he who would arouse these feelings in the hope that they may rebound to his own political advantage. Corporations that are handled honestly and fairly so far from being an evil, are a natural business evolution, and make for the general prosperity of our land. We do not wish to make them subservient to the public good. All individuals, rich or poor, private or corporate, must be subject to the law of the land, and the government will hold them to a rigid obedience thereto. The biggest corporation, like the humblest private citizen, must be held to the strict compliance with the will of the people as expressed in the fundamental law. The rich man who does not see that this is in his interest is indeed shortsighted. When we make him obey the law, we insure for him the absolute protection of the law."

"The words of President Roosevelt came in good time, for in these days we have many loud speaking patriots of the street corner variety whose words make for patriotism but whose acts belie their words. The Washington Star hits the blusterer, whether of business, profession or politics, off to advantage with:

"That man's not always good and great
 Who loudly has his say;
 The base drum makes the biggest noise,
 But isn't hard to play."

One Minute Cough Cure

Is the only harmless cough cure that gives quick relief. Cures Coughs, Colds, Croup, Bronchitis, Whooping Cough, Pneumonia, Asthma, LaGrippe and all Throat, Chest and Lung troubles, by getting soaked by rain, says Gertrude E. Fenner, Muncie, Ind., and contracted a severe cold and cough. I failed rapidly; lost 48 lbs. My druggist recommended One Minute Cough Cure. The first bottle brought relief; several cured me. I am back to my old weight, 148 lbs. One Minute Cough Cure cuts the phlegm, relieves the cough at once, draws out inflammation, cures croup. An ideal remedy for children. Kerr's Pharmacy, Jackson.

Gillett, the republican nominee for congress in the first district, won by over 2800 majority. His majority of 1800 in his home county of Humboldt exceeded the total pluralities given to Ford in all the counties carried by the democratic candidate. The cry of "we want a man from the mining section," did not have much weight with the voters, as the only mining counties that declared for Ford were Tuolumne, El Dorado, Mariposa, Nevada, and Siskiyou.

Astounding Discovery.

From Coopersville, Mich., comes word of a wonderful discovery of a pleasant tasting liquid that when used before retiring by any one troubled with a bad cough always ensures a good night's rest. "It will soon cure the cough too," writes Mrs. S. Homelburger, "for three generations of our family have used Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption and never found its equal for Coughs and Colds." It's an unrivaled life-saver when used for desperate lung diseases. Guaranteed bottles 50c and $1.00 at D. B. Spagnoli's. Trial bottles free.

SCIENTIFIC MISCELLANY.

Snag-Shots in a New Field—Saving the Hit—Signaling Target—The World's Earthquakes—Seeing by Wire—Tiny Backbones—Heat—Powdered Metals—New Luminous Paint.

Submarine photography is not likely to become a popular pastime. But it is introducing us to unknown regions, and M. Louis Boutan, who began by investigating the animal life of the waters, has become an enthusiastic sea-bottom cameraist. Some of his remarkable photographs of submarine scenery have been recently published. He uses a hand camera, which is enclosed in a tight copper box having a plate-glass window, and is mounted on a cast-iron tripod. Suitable mechanism is provided to expose and change the plates. The pressure of the water, inconveniently great even at 20 or 30 feet, was an early difficulty, but this was counteracted by means of a rubber ball, holding about a gallon, from which air was forced through a tube into the box as the pressure increased. Light fades rapidly in sinking below the surface, daylight exposures being impracticable at a depth of 25 feet. Magnesium powder, burned in oxygen in a suitable glass globe, and by this powerful illumination, instantaneous exposures are made with interesting results.

The biological stations of the New England coast have solved the problem of lobster culture. Several thousand of the young fry are put into a cylindrical scrim bag about three feet in diameter and four feet deep, and the water in the submerged bag is constantly agitated by a dasher driven by a gasoline engine. This prevents the fry from smothering or devouring one another and at the same time keeping their food of soft-clam fragments within reach. In nine to sixteen days from the eggs the creatures are able to take care of themselves, this stage being reached by 16 to more than 40 per cent of the fry, although no previous experiment had even one per cent of survivors.

That certain substances adhere so tenaciously to glass as to bring away scales was observed long ago by Prof. Cailliet. For etching he applies two coats of thin glue, and after twenty-four hours places the article on a kitchen range at not over 105 degrees F. The glue will detach itself with numerous flakes of glass. The designs may be varied by adding various salts, the best results being had from glue containing alum.

The electric target of Capt. Chas. Chevallier, of the French army, is a series of metal segments. When a projectile strikes a segment, an electric circuit is completed by one or more spring-supported rods at the back, and the exact spot struck is signalled upon an annunciator.

About 50 earthquakes yearly disturb the world throughout its mass. Prof. John Milne notes that between Jan. 1, 1899, and Jan. 1, 1902, the world-shaking earthquakes numbered 196, of which 25 originated west and south of Alaska, 14 west of Central America, 16 west of the Andes, 29 east of North Japan, 41 south and east of Java, 17 north of Mauritius, 22 on the east side and 3 on the west side of the North Atlantic, 3 in the North Atlantic, and 14 in the Balkan, Caucasian and Himalayan regions. These sources—all submarine but the last three—are near the base of the steepest fuses, with boundary lines mostly lined with volcanic peaks. Both on land and under sea, the great earthquakes seem to attend a deepening of the furrows and an elevation of the flanking ridges; and the elevation may re-open long-sealed volcanoes, as in the eruptions in the Antilles in 1698, 1718, 1766, 1797, 1802, 1812, 1836 and 1902. The small earthquakes—of which 10,000 a year are recorded—have no sensible connection with volcanoes.

The new image-transmitting apparatus of a Belgian engineer includes two synchronous motors, each the size of an egg, which are mounted at the two stations, and driven by the same current at the same speed of 500 revolutions a second. On each armature is a small lens which in every 50 revolutions oscillates five degrees from the axis. The transmitting lens thus "sees" over a circle of ten degrees, and the variations of light and shade in the spiral path are instantly transmitted through a selenium cell to the same points on the receiver, and are thrown on a screen by the second lens. The entire spiral beam passes ten times a second, the image on the screen appears continuous.

The smallest vertebrates hitherto known have been several fishes of the southern states, the shortest about an inch long. A new goby-named Mistichthys luzonensis—is reported from a lake of southern Luzon, and averages only about half an inch in length. Caught in great numbers by the natives, this tiny species is a food-fish of some importance.

Various metallic substances are pulverized in the electric furnace by heating to volatilization, and then forcing into a collecting chamber by a jet of air or inert gas. Among useful powders produced are those of bronze, tin and aluminum; of litharge, or lead oxide; and of chrome steels, used as abrasives. Variations of the process give such compounds as white lead.

The improved self-luminous mixture of a French chemist, claimed to require only very short exposure to light and to be unusually brilliant and lasting, consists of 20 parts of dehydrated sodium carbonate, 5 of sodium chloride, 1 of magnesium sulphate, 500 of strontium carbonate and 150 of sulphur. The well-mixed materials are kept white-hot for three hours in an air-tight muffle.

Death of W. T. Jones.

William T. Jones, well known in this county as a mining superintendent, having been connected with the Eureka of Sutter Creek, and Plymouth Consolidated at Plymouth, in the bonanza days of those properties, died at his home in Oakland in the early part of last week. The Enquirer of Monday has the following in relation to the funeral:

The funeral of William T. Jones, the well-known mining expert who died the first part of the week, was held yesterday from his late home at 1529 Ninth avenue. Many friends were present to pay their respect to the deceased. The floral offerings were numerous.

The deceased was a native of Wales, aged 62 years. He came to California many years ago and for a long time past has made his home in Oakland. As a mining expert he was known all over the state, and his reputation as a thorough and careful man extended still farther. He expended several mines for a large London syndicate and during the past few years has done considerable work for an eastern syndicate. Personally the deceased was a jovial man with a kindness of disposition and a frankness of address that won for him a host of friends.

He was taken ill four months ago, while expediting some property in the northern part of the state. He returned to his home in this city and was thought to be on the road to recovery until about three weeks ago when a sudden turn for the worse came. From then on until death intervened he gradually grew worse. Death was due to a complication of diseases.

The body is to be cremated and it has been taken to the receiving vault of the Odd Fellows' cemetery in San Francisco. It will be held in the vault for several days, the relatives desiring to hold the body, because of the absence of a daughter who was married six months ago and has not yet returned from an extended trip with her husband to London. She left London three weeks ago for this city. Immediately upon the death of her father telegrams were sent to New York and other cities where it was thought the daughter might be stopping, but as yet the relatives have failed to locate her and she does not yet know of the death of her father.

The deceased leaves three daughters, Cyvella, Elizabeth and Geneva, and three sons. He was on uncle of Ethel, Helen and Catherine Lloyd.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free. P. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c.

PLYMOUTH.

PLYMOUTH, Nov. 26.—Quite a number of our townsmen attended the "turkey shoot" and "raffle" at Forest Home Saturday and Sunday.

The "Y" society have fitted up the annex of the M. E. church, and hold meetings there every second Saturday evening. The society is growing very rapidly, the young people taking an active interest in all the departments of work. At the last regular meeting, after the business was disposed with, the young gentlemen served lunch, to which all did ample justice. A cordial invitation is extended to the public to attend our meetings.

Mrs. Schaler, who has been quite ill for some time, is daily improving under the care of Dr. Norman.

A social dance will take place here to-morrow eve, supper to be served by the "Y" society.

Mr. Gesler, who has been ill for two weeks, being speechless, is reported no better, and is daily growing weaker.

Miss Alma Dugan visited her relatives in Latrobe Saturday, accompanied by James Dohman.

A Witty Panger.

While walking through an old street in Stuttgart recently a man found a purse, and thinking that it might contain something valuable, he stuck it hastily in his pocket and hurried home. He examined it then and was disgusted to find that it contained nothing except these four lines in German on a slip of paper:

When you find this purse, refrain from joy.
 I'll tell you why in a minute—
 I only threw it away because
 I hadn't a cent to put in it.

Benefits of Travelling.

Proper recreation prolongs life. This fact is now better appreciated by busy people than ever before. Of all the forms of recreation the best perhaps is travelling. The benefits to be derived from it cannot be exaggerated. A journey, whether brief or long, is sure to relieve the mind of business or domestic cares by directing it into pleasant channels. Thousands can testify that traveling has improved their health, lengthened their lives, brightened their mental faculties more than anything else.—Boston Globe.

The Other One.

Lover (mountainally)—Have you learned to love another?
 Flirt (who had just broken off her engagement with him)—Oh, no, George; I didn't have to learn. The man is very, very wealthy, and the love came spontaneously.

Anger.

It is said that anger is one of the most harmful emotions, in fact that very few are aware how frightfully dangerous it is to the average person. There is on record this saying of a great doctor: "He is a man very rich indeed in physical power who can afford to be angry."

Many of the property holders are inquiring "What makes the taxes so high this year?" And, indeed, they may well ask that question. While the actual tax rate is the same this year as last, $1.95 on the $100, we contend that such taxation for a county like Amador, is entirely too high. In some districts a heavy special school tax is levied. In Pine Grove district, 50 cents on each $100 of property is levied to pay for the new school erected some five or six years ago. For a district composed chiefly of small farms, with no large mines included within its limits, such a rate is indeed burdensome.

Marre Bro's. team came near having a runaway Tuesday morning. It was hitched to a sign post in front of Well's store, when the horses commenced to pull back, and snapped the sign post, the sight of which dragging at the end of the lines scared the animals. The driver happened to be near-by, and seized the animals at the critical moment. Even then it was a hard job to hold them until they quieted down. Fortunately no damage was done beyond the breaking of the sign post.

R. Bierce left Jackson on Tuesday for San Francisco. Reaching Ione, he was detained there by the constable on a complaint charging him with assault. It seems that the arrest was the outcome of a wrangle over local politics between two families, which eventuated Saturday evening in Bierce striking Rob Adams, minor son of Mrs. R. J. Adams, in the jaw, as he was leaving Glavinovich's store. The complaint was based on this incident. Defendant was brought back to Jackson, pleaded not guilty, and was held under bonds of $50. Wednesday, however, he withdrew his plea of not guilty, and was fined $8. The costs in the case amount to over $10.

CASE OF OWEN FALLON.

On Trial for the Murder of Raymond Meehan.

The trial of Owen Fallon, charged with the murder of Raymond F. Meehan on the morning of the 17th of August last, was commenced in the superior court on Tuesday morning.

The prosecution was represented by district attorney C. P. Vicini, and defendant by W. J. McGee. Sixty trial jurors had been summoned to appear, out of which to select a jury. It was expected from the nature of the case, and the publicity that had been given to it, that some difficulty would be encountered in getting twelve unbiased men, without an opinion touching the guilt or innocence of the accused to try the issue. A number were excused for cause, having formed an opinion that could not be changed. A full jury, however, was secured early Tuesday afternoon, with two names to spare in the box. The jurors sworn to try the case are as follows:

M. Fitzsimmons, J. H. Williams, I. C. McClary, Claude Wilson, T. C. Stowers, W. H. Sharp, H. W. Neff, M. S. Carbine, W. Clifton, J. A. Sohn, J. Andrews, R. Downey.

Charles Gregory and Frank Burgin, who were the only eye-witnesses of the shooting, which took place in the Gem saloon on Main street, Jackson, kept by the last named witness, early on the morning of August 17. Their testimony was to the effect that while Gregory and Meehan were standing at the bar, the latter engaged in eating a dish of beans, Owen Fallon entered the front door, walked through the bar room, and passed into the card room in the rear. He said nothing, and after looking into the card room, passed out into the street. In a short time he reappeared. Deceased and Gregory were still standing before the bar, and Burgin attending to his business behind the bar. Fallon took a position at first nearest the street, with Gregory between him and Meehan. He afterward changed his position and got next to deceased, and then said, "Meehan are you healed; I am going to kill you, or you will kill me." Gregory attempted to pacify Fallon, who, however, showed no outward signs of excitement. Fallon seized Gregory and swung him around through the swinging doors that separated the bar from the card room, and immediately drew his pistol and commenced shooting. The first shot took effect in the wall close to the door casing; the second went through the glass pane in the front door. After the second shot Meehan and Fallon grappled, and in the struggle that ensued, both went to the floor close to the bar. Two or three more shots were fired as the men were on the floor. When the chambers were all exploded, young Gregory and Burgin went around and got the pistol from Fallon. Fallon got up and treated those in the saloon, ten or twelve in number. Nightwatchman Parker came in and took defendant in custody. Deceased was not heard to say a word during the struggle and shooting.

Drs. E. E. Endicott and A. M. Gall were called, and testified that they attended the deceased from the shooting until he died on the 15th of September. Dr. Endicott was called to attend him first at Arditto's saloon, where he was taken immediately after the shooting by Henry Schacht and others. He examined him and found him suffering from the shock, and from two gunshot wounds over the left shoulder, and two in the left forearm. The wounds were powder marked, except one in the forearm, which seemed to be an exit wound. The two doctors named held an autopsy on the body on Sept 15, and found that both wounds in the shoulder passed through shoulder blade, and entered the chest cavity; one entered the left lung. Death was caused by injury to the lung caused by gunshot wound.

L. N. Martell testified that he was at his home at Martell's station on the morning of the 17th. After 12 o'clock defendant came there and inquired for his wife, and when she came, asked to see his child. She told him he was asleep. Defendant asked if she had given him up for Ray Meehan. She began to cry. Defendant then said, "That settles it; either he or I will have to die."

The pistol was introduced, and it was admitted to be the weapon with which the shooting was done.

On Wednesday morning the prosecution closed their case, after placing one witness on the stand, to testify on a minor point.

W. J. McGee then made an opening statement for the defense, detailing that he expected to prove how the home of the defendant had been invaded by deceased, and the accused had been thereby wrought to such a condition of mental anguish that he took the life of Meehan while in a state of temporary insanity.

Owen Fallon, defendant, testified in his own behalf. He was pale, and evidently in poor health. His voice is hoarse from bronchial trouble. He gave his testimony in a straight-forward manner, that carried the impression that he was telling the truth—a sad story of domestic wrongs. He said he had known deceased since May, 1895, and had known his wife ever since she was a child. Remembered a picnic at Jackson Gate schoolhouse in May, 1895, and had a conversation with deceased at that time. Meehan said to him that he would like to dance with Annie Martell, but that her father objected, and he asked him to get the father's consent. He spoke to Mr. Martell, who objected at first, but finally gave permission for him to dance with Annie. He told Meehan why her father at first objected. Deceased said the girl was pretty badly stuck on him, but gave his word to treat her fairly and not to interfere with her after that day. Witness then kept company with her and married her in Sept., 1895. She was then under 18 years of age. Had one child living, a boy over three years old. Deceased kept his promise not to interfere, until January, 1899. On the day of J. Fontenrose's funeral in Sutter Creek, where witness was living at that time, he met deceased near Vicini's hotel. Witness was going to Martell's station, deceased was going in the direction of Sutter Creek. He received a message from his wife to return home, which he did. Entering his home, his wife was holding one baby in her arms and rocking the other in the cradle. One child was sick and near to death. Ray Meehan was in the house, sitting on the sofa smoking a cigarette. His wife said, "My God, Owen, don't blame me for this. He knocked on the door, and I told him to come in, thinking it was the doctor. I entreated him to leave, but he refused, and insulted me." Witness then turned to Meehan and reminded him of the promise at the picnic. He said, "To — with the picnic; that woman thinks more of me than she does of you." Thereupon they fought, until deceased said he had enough. He then took him to Moore's hotel, and got a doctor to attend to his injuries, and afterward hired a buggy and had him taken home. Deceased admitted that he deserved more than he got; that he deserved to be killed, and told him that if he ever interfered with him or his wife again, he hoped he, witness, would kill him. The baby died a few days thereafter. From that time up to within a month or two of August last he had no reason to think that deceased had again interfered with the family. Some time before August he began to get suspicious. On his return from San Francisco was told that Meehan had been seen coming out of his back door at Martell's station, where witness was then living, at night. His wife was away at night several times. On the 16th of August, she wanted to go to town. He said after dinner he would hitch up the horse and take her. She said she wanted to go right away, and said she would walk, which she did. After three o'clock he drove to town. On his way he saw his wife and Ray Meehan coming out of the saloon known as the old Toll house, on the outskirts of town. He would not swear it was Meehan, but he believed it was. As soon as he saw him coming, deceased ran back into the house. He went in to find him but could not. His wife got in the buggy, and he drove her home. On the way she at first denied that it was Meehan who was with her. Returning to the house afterward, he asked the landlady who the man was and she said it was Meehan; that the two had been drinking there before he came along. Witness had agreed that night to referee a boxing contest in Love's hall. Did not usually carry a pistol, except when away from home. Saw deceased on the platform that night. He was a second for one of the contestants. Met him in the dressing room of the hall after the contest. Said to him: "You have kept your promise faithfully, haven't you. There must be something done about it. If you want that woman and she wants you, take her and get out of the county; don't humiliate me any more. I ought to kill you." He said he was not armed. Witness then said, "Go get a gun, and I will meet you in ten minutes." Deceased said it would take an hour or two. Witness then said, "I am going to Sutter Creek, and I'll meet you when I return. When you see me coming, you take the first shot. I would rather you kill me, than that I should kill you; my life is not worth much." Then drove Mr. Riehl to Sutter Creek, and on his way back called at his home and found it deserted; his wife and child gone. Went to Martell's house and inquired for his boy. His wife was there and said he was sleeping. He said to her, "My God, Annie, is it possible that you have given up your honor to Ray Meehan?" She commenced crying. He then said something to the effect that either he or Meehan would have to die. Re-turning to Jackson shortly afterward, he entered Burgin's saloon, and there saw deceased and C. Gregory standing at the bar. He addressed Meehan saying, "I see that you are waiting for me; are you armed." Gregory took hold of his left arm, when he thrust him aside, and commenced shooting. At the first shot deceased put his hand toward his hip pocket. He only remembered firing the two first shots. After the second shot, deceased grappled and both fell, defendant striking his head against the iron railing at the base of the bar. Did not remember what occurred after that, until they were taking the pistol from him. In the dressing room conversation, he said to deceased, "Can it be possible that there has been anything more between you and my wife than just meeting her." Defendant answered with a sneer. The cross-examination failed to shake the defendant's testimony in any material respect.

L. N. Martell, W. Walker and R. W. Scott were called to corroborate the defendant's evidence on several important points.

V. M. Colt said that he was with the deceased when he was taken to the rear room of Arditto's saloon after the shooting. While there alone with the deceased, he pulled a pistol and handed it to witness, saying, "Take this, Colt, and say nothing about it." He took it and finding it was too large to go in his pocket, he laid it on the window sill; did not examine the weapon, and could not tell whether the pistol produced was the same.

Henry Schacht said he found the pistol on the window sill. It was a five-chambered, self-cocking weapon, and loaded. By other witnesses the pistol was identified as one belonging to H. E. Kay, and kept behind the bar in Arditto's saloon, and was missed from its place on the morning of the shooting.

Dr. Browning was called as an expert, to show that a man suffering under a mental strain produced by such circumstances as those that environed the defendant, would be temporarily irresponsible for his actions.

Wednesday evening the court adjourned over thanksgiving. The trial is going on to-day. It is expected that the case will be given to the jury to-night.

The only amusement in Jackson on thanksgiving day was turkey shooting in the rear of Chin's saloon. Mr. Colts and some boys from Jackson valley brought up thirty birds. Seventeen of these were disposed of in the shoot, at 25 cents a shot. The promoters lost by this arrangement. Tom Norman captured two for 50 cents; H. Garbarini killed two in three shots. Thirteen were afterward raffled, and that process brought the boys out ahead.

FATAL MINING ACCIDENT.

Edwin Durbin Killed by a Falling Rock in the Onelida Mine.

One of those singular accidents which tend to illustrate the perils of the miner's vocation, happened in the Onelida shaft on Friday evening last. At about 9 o'clock that night, two miners, named Edwin Durbin and P. F. Weber, were at work in the shaft at the 2100 foot station. The shaft is a perpendicular one, and no other persons were in the shaft at that particular hour. The two men were in the act of loading the skip at that point. The skip is provided with a hood or roof to protect the men as much as possible from loose debris falling down the shaft. Between this covering and the timbers of the shaft there is only about five inches of open space. This narrow space might be thought would reduce the danger of injury to those working underneath to a minimum. While the two miners were at work, Weber heard a heavy blow as of a falling substance on the hood and immediately thereafter his comrade fell as if struck by a thunderbolt. He fell partly across the skip and partly on the timbers. Weber was by his side in an instant, but found him dead. A rock, after striking on the top of the hood of the skip, must have glanced off through the five inch open space, and struck Durbin on the back of the head, crushing the skull, and killing him instantly. His companion never heard a sound from him. The victim had neither time nor power to utter a sound. The feelings of Weber as the terrible calamity was revealed to him can better be imagined than described. His fellow workman, one moment in the full possession of manly vigor and health, the next a lifeless corpse at his feet. It is supposed that the rock fell from the timbers of the shaft, but how far above the point where the men were employed is unknown. The body was conveyed to the surface as soon as possible, and taken to one of the company's houses. Coroner Gritton was notified, and held an inquest on Saturday evening at the Onelida boarding-house. After hearing the testimony the jury rendered a verdict of accidental death, in accordance with the facts as above stated.

Deceased was only 20 years of age. He had been working at the Onelida for about six months. He came here from Nevada City, where his parents are living, and where the victim was born and reared. The body was shipped Sunday to his relatives at Nevada City.

Heavy Freight for Kennedy.

The heavy machinery for the new Kennedy hoist is at Ione awaiting shipment to the mine. The carrying of this machinery to the works is a formidable undertaking in itself. Two of the pieces, circular in shape, weigh 12 tons each, and are 8 feet 6 inches in diameter. To convey these pieces to the mine a wagon has to be specially fixed up for the occasion. Garbarini Bros. are now at work getting the wagon in trim for this job. A Piccardo has taken the contract to do the hauling. The wagon must be made two feet wider, with new axles, and many other alterations, making it almost equal to building an entirely new wagon for the affair. The work is urgent, and one ton of iron was shipped from the city to Ione by express, arriving in Ione last Tuesday, and was forwarded to Jackson Wednesday. Garbarini Bros. expect to have the running gear completed by next Monday, so that the machinery is expected to be placed on the ground during next week. The hoist when completed will eclipse anything heretofore constructed in the state. It will take eight boilers to operate it, and is said to be equal to hoisting 5000 tons per day. The concrete foundations are now in process of construction, and are of the most massive and solid description.

A Thanksgiving Dinner.

Heavy eating is usually the first cause of indigestion. Repeated attacks inflame the mucous membranes lining the stomach, exposing the nerves of the stomach, producing a swelling after eating, heartburn, headache, sour risings and finally catarrh of the stomach. Kodol relieves the inflammation, protects the nerves and cures the catarrh. Kodol cures indigestion, dyspepsia, all stomach troubles by cleansing and sweetening the glands of the stomach. Amador Man Asphyxiated.

Boxing Bout.

The Jackson Athletic Club has arranged another boxing tournament to take place in Love's hall on Saturday, December 6. The principal event will be a twenty round set-to between Eddie Martin of Denver and Frank Rafael of Amador, for $100, beside a liberal portion of the gate receipts. The local boxer is well known here, having on several occasions exhibited his prowess in the many art before a Jackson gathering, invariably coming out a winner. The man from Denver, however, is reported to be a remarkably clever boxer, and the exhibition is expected to surpass anything heretofore seen in the county in this line. Preliminary bouts have been arranged between Sammy Futter and Zane Tellit of Sutter, and young Rugne and Laurie of Jackson. The local athletic club has been quiescent for the past two or three months, but if given the encouragement which it deserves, will furnish amusements at intervals through the coming winter months.

Dr. P. C. Erhardt and his aunt, Miss Wilds, left this morning for San Francisco, for a brief visit.

Obituary.

After a protracted sickness Mrs. Frances Ann Haley passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. I. N. Dewitt, at Murphy's Ridge near Jackson, on Tuesday morning last. Her last illness covered a period of over one year, and for the last two months of her life she was confined to her bed. The disease which brought life's journey to a close was liver complaint. Deceased was born in Missouri, June 5, 1830, but has been a resident of this county for many years. Her husband died about 24 years ago. She was the mother of ten children, seven of whom survive her—four daughters and three sons.

She united with the Christian church in 1844; her letters of membership are still in the old church at Gilroy, Cal. She lived a sincere christian life, was a good neighbor, and a faithful wife and mother.

The funeral took place on Thursday, the remains being taken to Lockeford cemetery for interment, where the body of her husband has reposed for so many years.
